“PRIZE WINNERS”

Description of Awards to Cadets 1920 to 2020

Version 1.4 19 July 2023 IBM Steward 6GE

This analysis relies heavily on records archived at the RAF College before 2000 and DVDs purchased by the author of Graduation Parades beyond 2005. It is quite likely, therefore, that not all prize winners have been included especially as not all were presented their prizes during the Graduation Parades. Any members of 180 IOT and beyond (including all IOTC graduates) are invited to send copies of their graduation programmes to ibms520@gmail.com and I shall endeavour to correct any errors or omissions.

FLYING PRIZES

R. M. GROVES MEMORIAL PRIZE: THE DICKSON TROPHY: THE KINKEAD TROPHY

THE winner of the R. M. Groves Memorial Prize was selected after a series of tests covering every aspect of a service pilot's training. General handling, aerobatics, bombing, cine-gun air firing, and instrument flying were all tested, and in accordance with the post-war conception of an All Weather Air Force, the emphasis formerly placed on pure flying and aerobatics shifted to instrument flying. Consequently, the customary aerobatic display was not held, and the final test by the Chief Flying Instructor of Central Flying School took place with a cloud base of 3,000 feet and 1,800 yards visibility.

The flying order of merit was produced by a system of marking in which the overall progress of the cadet in each aspect of his flying, as well as the final tests, counted towards the maximum of 1,000 marks.

Competition was keen and the final results were close. The first three cadets in order of merit were Flight Cadet Under-Officer Pledger, Flight Cadet Lamb and Flight Cadet Corporal Slater. Accordingly, these three cadets were tested by Wing Commander Keen, A.F.C., the Chief Flying Instructor of Central Flying School, on 28th March. The Wing Commander expressed great satisfaction with the standard of flying displayed by all three contestants, particularly in view of the weather conditions. The final order was Flight Cadet Under-Officer Pledger, Flight Cadet Lamb and Flight Cadet Corporal Slater.

Under-Officer Pledger is to be congratulated on winning both the Groves Prize and the Dickson Trophy. The Dickson Trophy is awarded to the cadet obtaining the highest marks in applied instrument flying, bombing, gunnery, formation flying and navigation.

All three cadets have reached a high standard of flying, which succeeding entries will have to work hard to attain.

The Kinkead Trophy, awarded to the Squadron with the best aggregate position in the Flying Order of Merit, was won by B Squadron.

College Journal Spring 1964

The Battle of Britain Trophy, presented by the Battle of Britain Fighter Association to perpetuate the memory of the Battle of Britain, is awarded to the flight cadet of the Senior Entry judged to be the best aerobatic pilot. The trophy represents a crane taking off, symbolic of the spirit and purpose of the award, and is in lightly oxidised silver mounted on a base. The crane is an integral part of the College crest, taken from the coat of arms of the de Crane Well family to whom the land on which the College stands originally belonged.

The first winner of the trophy was Under Officer J. G. Kendrick of No. 83 Entry to whom it was presented at the Wings and Prizes Ceremony at the Whittle Hall on 29th July 1963. Air Marshal Sir Augustus Walker was to have handed it over but he turned to Group Captain Alan Deere and asked him to present it instead.

The second winner was Senior Flight Cadet M. J. Hughes of No. 84 Entry in December 1963.

The trophy was presented to the College by Air Commodore A. R. D. MacDonell, C.B., D.F.C., Chairman of the Battle of Britain Fighter Association.

THE COLLEGE PRIZES

At each Passing Out Ceremony in the Department of Officer and Flying Training, and at ceremonies in other Departments, prizes are awarded. What is not generally known is the history behind the awards. This article deals with 6 such awards; subsequent articles will describe others, forming a permanent record of yet another chapter of the College's past. We are indebted to Mr Hensby for his painstaking research and for his careful preservation of the documents forming College history.

THE QUEEN'S MEDAL

The Queen's Medal, originally the Kings' Medal, was awarded for the first time in 1935 to Flight Cadet Sergeant A J Mason, later Group Captain A J Mason, DFC. On the accession of Queen Elizabeth II the title was changed to the Queen's Medal, the first winner being Flight Cadet R J Barnard (55 Entry) in April 1952. Her Majesty was pleased to sanction the award for Graduate Entrant Officers on an annual basis and appropriately HRH the Duke of Kent presented the first medal to Flight Lieutenant J D Arkell (11 GE) in June of this year.

The medal, bearing on the obverse side the effigy of the Queen and on the reverse the words "The Queen's Medal Royal Air Force College Cranwell" and the year of the award, has the full name of the winner stamped around its edge. It is awarded by the Queen to the officer, who in the opinion of the Commandant, has produced the best performance in all aspects of training.

THE SWORD OF HONOUR

The Sword is awarded by the Air Force Board of the Defence Council to the graduate entrant who is recommended by the Commandant as having most distinguished himself in leadership and in general influence for the good of the College.

It was first awarded in 1921 to Under Officer C L Falconer, later Air Commodore

Falconer CBE. To date 106 swords have been awarded, 93 to Flight Cadets and 13 to Graduate Entrant Officers.

The first sword was presented at a Passing Out Ceremony by Winston Churchill when he was Secretary of State for War. The first Graduate Entrant Sword of Honour was presented in August 1971 to Flight Lieutenant G H MacKay by Air Chief Marshal Sir Dennis Spotswood, Chief of the Air Staff.

The sword is based on a light infantry pattern with a $\frac{3}{4}$ in. dumb-bell shaped blade, $32\frac{1}{2}$ in. in length, embossed with the eagle and crown of the Royal Air Force on one side and the Royal Coat of Arms on the other. Both sides are embossed with Scroll work and laurel leaves. The winner's name and rank are also embossed on the blade.

The hilt is a half basket type of infantry pattern, gold plated to a quality of 18 microns. The eagle backstrap is unique to the Royal Air Force, with a Royal Air Force Cartouche on the hilt. The grip is covered in bleached fish skin bound by 3 turns of wire — 2 thin and one thick.

THE PHILIP SASOON MEMORIAL PRIZE

Sir Philip Sassoon, who died in 1939, was a former Under Secretary of State for Air. In his will he made provision for an annual income to provide the award to the best all-round student of the entry, excepting the winner of the Sword of Honour. The current value of the award is £35 and the money may be spent on some item of an intrinsically permanent nature.

World War II delayed the award's coming into effect and the first Philip Sassoon Memorial prize was awarded in April 1948 to Flight Cadet H R W Morris.

In addition to the monetary prize the winner receives a scroll and his name is inscribed on the appropriate Honours Board.

THE ROBERT MARSLAND GROVES MEMORIAL PRIZE

The prize was donated to the College in memory of Air Commodore R M Groves CB, DSO, AFC, who was killed in a flying accident in Egypt in 1920. Air Commodore Groves was the first Vice-Chief of the Air Staff.

The two principal donors of the award were Air Commodore Groves' mother and an uncle, Mr W G Groves. After their deaths, the association with both the College and the Royal Air Force was continued by Group Captain H M Groves who died in March of this year. The sole surviving donor is now Major Keith Groves, a brother of R M Groves, but keen interest in the award is maintained by other members of the family.

The prize consists of a book or books suitably inscribed with an inset portrait of Air Commodore Groves and a reproduction of his autograph. The choice of the books is that of the prizewinner, and there is also a monetary prize.

The Prize was first awarded in 1921 to Flight Cadet Sgt Hayter-Hames, subsequently killed in action in Warzistan. From 1929 the Kinkead Trophy was associated with the R M Groves prize, but it was not until 1958 that the prize was designated and awarded as "The R M Groves Memorial Prize and the Kinkead Trophy".

The late Group Captain Groves had taken steps to ensure that the financial value of the prize was sufficient to be awarded to Graduate Entrant officers. This became effective in 1973 when the prize was awarded to Flight Lieutenant P L Moules of No 9 Graduate Entry.

THE KINKEAD TROPHY

This handsome trophy was donated by the family and friends of Flight Lieutenant S M Kinkead DSO, DSC, DFC, who was killed in 1928 while attempting to break the world air speed record. As can be seen from his decorations, Flight Lieutenant Kinkead had an outstanding war record. He was an instructor at Cranwell from 1920-1924.

The trophy was presented to the College in 1929 and from that year until 1958 was awarded to the Squadron the member of which had won the R M Groves Memorial prize. In 1958 it was decided to give greater recognition to the trophy and so it was presented to the Flight Cadet who won the R M Groves Memorial prize and thus the names of two brave men were permanently linked.

R S MAY MEMORIAL PRIZE

The donor of the prize was Flight Lieutenant Richard May who entered the College as a Flight Cadet in 1948, was commissioned in 1950 and who was killed in a flying accident in 1958.

Flight Lieutenant May had made provision in his will for a sum of money to be placed in trust to produce an annual income sufficient for a monetary prize for each Sword of Honour winner. The first Flight Cadet to be awarded the prize was Senior Under Officer T F H Mermagen in July 1959 and in 1972 the necessary legal procedure was instituted so that the award might be transferred from the flight cadets to the Graduate Entrants. The first graduate entrant officer to receive the award was Flight Lieutenant P L Moules (9 GE).

These then are the awards: the Kinkead Trophy to the R S May Memorial Prize commemorating brave men who, even in death, sought to give back to their College in return for what they had received. At each Passing Out Ceremony let us remember such men and strive to follow their example of selfless Service.

THE HALAHAN TROPHY

Air Vice-Marshal Halahan was educated at Dulwich and in 1894, at the age of 14, he joined HMS Britannia. He then served for 4 years on HMS Immortalite before specialising in gunnery; in 1905 whilst with the Atlantic Fleet he was badly injured in a gun explosion.

In August 1906 he was posted as Gunnery Lieutenant to HMS Dreadnought on which ship he carried out practices with 12 inch guns with King Edward VII and the then Prince of Wales, later King George V, on board, and as a result of this he was awarded the MVO. During that year he attended a staff course at the School of Gunnery Sheerness and became one of the greatest authorities of his time on naval gunnery.

Shortly after the outbreak of war in 1914 he was given an Admiralty appointment in charge of anti-aircraft defences of London. In 1915 he qualified as a pilot at Hendon on a Maurice Farman Longhorn and then commanded the Royal Naval Air Service units at Dover and Dunkirk. In the last year of the war he commanded 5th Group of the newly formed Royal Air Force and then held successively Directorates of Equipment, Inspection and Technical Development before becoming Commandant of the Royal Air Force College in 1926.

He died in 1965 and three years ago his son and daughter, Guy and Pat Halahan, donated not only the Halahan Trophy, but also two handsome salvers which are on display in Trenchard Hall Officers' Mess, in his memory. As well as the trophy which is awarded to the best overall student on the Maintenance Course, Miss Halahan has arranged monetary prizes for the winner and runner up.

Flying Officers G S Lynn (the runner-up) and Flying Officer H D Bromidge (the winner) holding the Trophy after the ceremony held on 19th July 1974.

March 2007 - The Sword of Honour

THE SWORD OF HONOUR

From 1921 until 1971 a sword of honour was awarded as a permanent prize to the most outstanding officer of each cadet entry, and similarly during the years 1971 – 1975, to each graduate entry course. The practice was then discontinued on grounds of cost, except for an annual award. From 1980, as the Sword of Merit, it was awarded on each Initial Officer Training Course to the most outstanding graduating officer. Since December 2006 the award has again been titled the Sword of Honour and awarded as a permanent prize on each course through the generosity of Mr Robert Pooley and Pooley Sword Limited.

Pooley Sword is a family owned and operated business whose founders have been respected in the aviation industry for 50 years. In August 2005, the very distinguished sword makers Wilkinson Sword, who had been established for over two hundred years, ceased trading as sword makers. Robert Pooley, who had been commissioning swords from Wilkinson's for the last forty years, purchased from Wilkinson's their drawings, product records, spares and much of their tooling including both heavy and light machinery. A Ryder Mechanical Hammer which was made at the end of the 1800's was also amongst the machinery purchased. Pooleys are now established as the leading supplier to the British Armed Forces and MOD as well as many Commonwealth and Overseas Defence Forces.

Pooley Sword Limited is privileged to donate the Royal Air Force Sword of Honour at RAF Cranwell.

Change to Sword of Honour

Hitherto, a Sword Of Honour was awarded by the Air Force Board to the Defence Council to the graduate entrant who was recommended by the Commandant as having most distinguished himself in leadership and in general influence for the good of the College. When the new Single Gate Initial Officer Training system was established in 1980, the Sword of Honour was replaced by a Sword of Merit and winners no longer received their own Sword, but a miniature mounted on a plinth. We are unsure why this change was made, but suspect that it was a savings measure now that, under SGIOT, one IOT course was graduating every 8 or 9 months a year, as opposed to a maximum of three times a year under the Flight Cadet and GE systems.

About the same time, IOTs were encouraged to design their own Cohort Badge, rather like a Squadron Badge, to develop their own identity and to foster esprit de corps. Examples of the new Sword of Honour and IOT Badge, in this case for 93 IOT, are given below.

IOTC (Entry) Prize Descriptions

The Sword of Honour	The history of the Sword of Honour is detailed in a slide at the beginning of this album, It is awarded to the cadet who has demonstrated outstanding ability, leadership and other qualities and potential for further development.
The Hennessy Trophy and Philip Sassoon Memorial Prize	The Hennessy Trophy was given to the College in 1960 by Flight Lieutenant Denis Hennessy who was, at that time, a flight commander in the Flight Cadet Training Wing. The Trophy was known as the Hennessy Leadership Training Trophy for inter-squadron competition. When the training of flight cadets ceased in 1973, the award fell into abeyance until 1975 when it became an individual performance award for graduate officers and has continued is, linked with the Philip Sassoon Memorial Prize, since January 1980. The Philip Sassoon Memorial Prize was endowed by the late Sir Philip Sassoon, former Under Secretary of State for Air. It was first awarded to the flight cadets in 1948, to graduate entrant officers between 1971 and 1979 and is now open to all cadets. The Trophy remains as College Hall and the winner receives a prize of intrinsic value. They are awarded to the cadet who, during Initial Officer Training, has proved to be the best all round cadet, over than the Sword of Honour winner. The Daedalus trophy is the corresponding award for the best all round SERE officer.
The Daedalus Trophy (SERE only)
The MacRobert Prize (Beyond IOTC 55 was awarded as the MacRoberts Sword to the best cadet on the Reserve Officers Course)	The Prize, donated by the MacRobert Trust in February 2003, is represented permanently by a mounted 10 inch silver quaich, with each prize winner receiving a silver miniature. The origins of the Trust rest with the wishes and work of Lady MacRobert who died in 1952. Of her 3 sons, one died when piloting a civil aircraft in 1938, whilst the other two were both killed on active service, 6 weeks apart in 1941, flying for the Royal Air Force. Very soon afterwards, Lady MacRobert donated £25,000 to purchase a Stirling bomber, named 'MacRobert's Reply', which was allocated to No XV Squadron. In addition, she gave four Hurricanes, three named after her sons and the fourth was presented to the Russian Air Force. As well as providing two properties in Scotland as rest centres for the Royal Air Force, the Trust, established by Lady MacRobert in 1943, has continued to donate generous and substantial support to many people and organisations, including Service charities. The close link between the Royal Air Force and the MacRobert family continues and No XV Squadron, based at Royal air Force Lossiemouth, continues to emblazon the family crest on one of its aircraft together with the title 'MacRoberts Reply'. The prize further cements that bond and is awarded to the cadet who, during Initial Officer Training, in the opinion of his or her peers, has made the greatest contribution to the course.
The King's College London Trophy	The King's College London Trophy is awarded to the cadet who, during Initial Officer Training, has demonstrated consistent academic excellence. It was first awarded in 13 July 2006 to PM Denton of IOTC 1, was last awarded to MAC Myers of IOTC 28 on 20 September 2012, and formally withdrawn in 2013.
BAe Systems Trophy	The award was originally presented to the Officer Cadet Training Unit, Royal Air Force Henlow, by the British Aircraft Corporation (The 'BAC Trophy'). Since 1980, it has been awarded at the Royal Air Force College Cranwell. The name of the prize was changed twice more, from 'The British Aerospace Trophy' to its current title in February 2001. The original Trophy of a Lightning aircraft has been replaced by a Typhoon (Eurofighter) aircraft model. The winner receives an individual commemorative plaque, to commemorate the attainment of the highest marks for professional studies during Initial Officer Training. It is awarded to the RAF or international cadet who has attained the highest marks for professional studies on the course.
The Group Captain Williams Memorial Trophy	The Trophy was given to the RAF College in 1988 by Mrs Jane Williams, in memory of her late husband, Group Captain "Willy" Williams, who died in 1987. It is awarded to the cadet who, throughout Initial Officer Training, has shown the greatest improvement.
The Sarah Moland Memorial Prize	The Sarah Moland Memorial Prize is awarded to the cadet who, throughout Initial Officer Training, has demonstrated outstanding qualities of courage and fortitude.
The Longcroft Trophy	The trophy was presented to the RAF Cadet College in 1924 by Air Commodore CH Longcroft, the first Commandant of the College. It was originally intended for 'Inter-Squadron' competitions, but has been awarded in its present form since 1996 to the cadet who, during Initial Officer Training, has made the most significant contribution to sport.
THE RAF Club Prize	The RAF Club Prize is awarded to the RAF Cadet who, in the eyes of the Directing Staff has, throughout the Course, shown grit and unwavering perseverance, meeting every challenge with enthusiasm.
